

April 23, 2013

Nate Berkus' Charming New York City Home is For Sale at a Sort of Reasonable Price

Nate Berkus has been in the news a lot lately. Recently, he and his boyfriend, Jeremiah Brent, announced their engagement. Now, the interior designer has put one of his New York City apartments up for sale -- and it's surprisingly affordable (for The Big Apple, that is).

According to real estate agency CORE, Berkus' one-bedroom, one-bath Greenwich Village abode is listed for a modest $699,000. The home was featured in Oprah's O Magazine after the designer renovated the 500-square-foot space. Berkus remodeled the kitchen, installed custom French doors and made the space seem larger by keeping the walls white and the color palette neutral.

Berkus also recently listed his Chicago apartment, and reportedly bought a home in Los Angeles to be closer to Brent. So, we totally understand that a 500-square-foot pad is too small for Nate's growing life.

Click through our slideshow to see photos of Nate's home. And be sure to head over to Core and Zillow for more information.

