

House of the Day: 7 St. Marks Avenue

How sweet is this! The old rectory building at 7 St. Marks Avenue in Park Slope is now on the market with an asking price of $2,375,000. The 23-foot-wide house is dripping with detail and the portions shown in the listing photographs look very well preserved. It's currently divided into four units, though, which usually means some kind of toll has been taken on the original structure. Still, pretty sweet.
