In da' house

British house-music producer Danny Kojo Poku, also known as D Mob or Dancin' Danny D, has just closed on a 2,041-square-foot, three-bedroom, three-bathroom unit with floor-to-ceiling windows at 520 W. 19th St. for $2.3 million, just a little less than his $2.35 million asking price.

The apartment also offers a sound system, smart-home technology, glazed ceramic tiles in the bathrooms and stainless-steel kitchen appliances.

Poku, a Ghanaian-born Brit, is perhaps best known for his work with Rihanna. His new building is designed by Annabelle Selldorf, who also designed nearby 200 11th Ave. Broker David Beare of Core — whose mother, Core's Emily Beare, headed up sales for the building — had no comment.
