

June 29, 2018

This Cool Pre-War Loft In Soho Is An Art-Filled Dream

(Source: Photographed by Travis Mark for CORE)

There are a few spaces that we come across that make our jaws actually drop. This beautiful loft in NYC is one of them. The classic Soho space was given a full renovation by Christine Gachot of Gachot Studios complete with beautiful wood finishes, bold accents, and lots of amazing art.

The designer's inspiration for the space? "Comfortable, modern, family fun," she shares. Read ahead to explore the rest of the amazing space.

(Source: Photographed by Travis Mark for CORE)

Open Plan

The main living room is a large light space that is easily divided into multiple rooms with some strategic styling.

(Source: Photographed by Travis Mark for CORE)

Keep It Green

Plants are always great additions to liven up a home.

(Source: Photographed by Travis Mark for CORE)

Artful Dining

A modern light fixture and Lichtenstein pieces make the dining area a definite highlight.

(Source: Photographed by Travis Mark for CORE)

Beautiful Built-In

Storage is hard to come by, so Gachot designed an amazing built-in structure to fit the warm wood palette and help the family get organized.

(Source: Photographed by Travis Mark for CORE)

Original Architecture

"We kept the historic cast iron column exposed in the kitchen," notes Gachot. "It is the feature of the island design!"

(Source: Photographed by Travis Mark for CORE)

Marble Marvel

We love the beautiful natural stone backsplash.

(Source: Photographed by Travis Mark for CORE)

Warm Wood

With a gut reno, the design team was able to easily create a flow between spaces with the white oak floors and panelling.

(Source: Photographed by Travis Mark for CORE)

Peaceful Space

"We wanted to keep the design consistent and straightforward, but still warm and comfortable," shares the designer.

(Source: Photographed by Travis Mark for CORE)

Office Talk

With such huge open spaces, this bedroom also doubles as a home office.

(Source: Photographed by Travis Mark for CORE)

Bathroom Break

One of the standout parts of the space? The fun anatomy print in the bathroom. "The inspiration was a simple pun," explains Gachot. "Toiletpaper Magazine in the toilet room as wallpaper. Maurizio Cattelan's work has always been an inspiration. It is funny and colorful — a great surprise to the muted palette in the rest of the residence."

(Source: Photographed by Travis Mark for CORE)

So Sleek

We love how the bathroom is almost entirely covered in the same tile with a few defining borders.

(Source: Photographed by Travis Mark for CORE)

Closet Goals

Is there anything better than a walk-in closet?

(Source: Photographed by Travis Mark for CORE)

Kid's Corner

We love how the kid's room deviates from the palette for a playful flair.

(Source: Photographed by Travis Mark for CORE)

Bold Bath

Rich indigo tile definitely adds drama to this cool bathroom.

(Source: Photographed by Travis Mark for CORE)

Awesome Exterior

Who knew such an incredible home was hiding in the streets of Soho?