

August 1, 2014

$9K/Month Greenwich Village Apartment Available for the First Time in 20 Years

It turns out you don't have to be an A-lister to live like a star in Greenwich Village... not if you have an extra $8,995 a month lying around. This garden apartment at 19 West 10th Street is prepared for even the pickiest renter, offering original details with modern updates and a flexible layout that can be rearranged to accommodate up to three bedrooms. So, you can put away your list of demands while we take a look at this Gold Coast pad.

The 1,260-square-foot home's current layout features one bedroom, two full baths, and a renovated kitchen. There are two spacious living areas—one in the front of the home and another in the back near the bedroom—and each space offers the warmth of a wood-burning fireplace and lush garden views. The apartment is well lit, thanks to large windows, French doors, and an abundance of track lighting. Meanwhile, there are hardwood floors throughout, along with high, beamed ceilings and crown molding.

Best of all, this pad is located in one of the city's most premier locations. The Gold Coast of Greenwich Village has plenty of shops and restaurants (and maybe even a little celebrityspotting) to keep you occupied when you're not enjoying all that this spacious apartment has to offer. And since this apartment is available for the first time in 20 years it's safe to say this unit is a pretty prime location all by itself.

Photos courtesy of CORE

