

The New York Times

January 4, 2018

Homes for Sale in New York City

- In Chelsea, a one-bedroom, one-and-a-half bath condo with an open kitchen with a breakfast bar; a stacked Bosch washer and dryer; and a skinny terrace, in Yves Chelsea, a glassy 2008 doorman building with an indoor pool.

Brad Dickson for The New York Times

Chelsea Condo • $1,475,000 • MANHATTAN • 166 West 18th Street, No. 4B

A one-bedroom, one-and-a-half bath condo with an open kitchen with a breakfast bar; a stacked Bosch washer and dryer; and a skinny terrace, in Yves Chelsea, a glassy 2008 doorman building with an indoor pool. Steve Snider, 212-500-2104, and Lisa Blumencranz, 212-612-9689, CORE Group Marketing; corenyc.com

Brad Dickson for The New York Times

Chelsea Condo • $1,475,000 • MANHATTAN • 166 West 18th Street, No. 4B

COMMON CHARGES $901 a month; taxes: $939 a month

Brad Dickson for The New York Times

Chelsea Condo • $1,475,000 • MANHATTAN • 166 West 18th Street, No. 4B

PROS Floor-to-ceiling windows provide good light. The kitchen features glass Valcucine cabinets. The apartment has had only one owner and doesn't show obvious signs of wear and tear.

Brad Dickson for The New York Times

Chelsea Condo • $1,475,000 • MANHATTAN • 166 West 18th Street, No. 4B

CONS The range is not vented to the outside. Neither of the baths has windows. The building's tinted facade may not be to everyone's liking.

Brad Dickson for The New York Times

Chelsea Condo • $1,475,000 • MANHATTAN • 166 West 18th Street, No. 4B