August's Most Popular Properties

The five most viewed listings on The New York Times's "Find a Home" site last month included a bed-and-breakfast with a glamping tent and chicken coops.

Other popular listings included a large home in a New Jersey suburb, a prewar apartment in Queens, N.Y., and a Manhattan apartment with plentiful outdoor space.

2. Prewar in a Historic District

$448,500 | 35-15 84th Street, Jackson Heights, N.Y., No. 1B

The second most popular listing was for a one-bedroom co-op in a Queens, N.Y., neighborhood renowned for its cultural diversity. The apartment building has prewar details and an appealing courtyard.
