

AD

ARCHITECTURAL DIGEST

March 31, 2015

Slam Dunk

The airy Upper East Side apartment that's been home to New York Knicks star forward Carmelo Anthony and his wife, television personality La La Anthony, is on the market. The newly renovated prewar penthouse is located in an exclusive building across from Central Park whose amenities include a 24-hour concierge, a large fitness center, and a residents' lounge. AD100 architect and designer S. Russell Groves devised the building's interiors.

Contact: Lisa Graham of CORE, 212-500-2103; corenyc.com

A private elevator landing provides a refined entry to the modern ten-room residence. The unit's main living area features oak floors and coffered ceilings.

A large gas fireplace centers the living room, and the many windows along the western wall provide expansive views of Central Park.

This handsome bath features Bianco Dolomiti marble, Dornbracht fixtures, and heated floors.

Idyllic treetop views of Central Park, with the skyline beyond, create a calm atmosphere high above Manhattan.