

November 4, 2012

5 apartments with outstanding views of the fall foliage

According to the Fall Foliage Report (yes, there exists such a thing, and it's updated every Wednesday afternoon, here), foliage in New York City will hit midpoint to near peak this week. What better way to celebrate the explosion of color than with a survey of apartments with stunning leafy views? Here, a sampling:

There's no better place to take in the season's best color than via this 1,500-plus-square-foot two-bedroom, two-bath rental at 106 Central Park South (yours for $15,000/month).