CORE Initiated Into Cool New Gang

CORE initiated into cool new gang

Manhattan's CORE group has been initiated into a prestigious group of luxury real estate brokerage firms around the world .

The company will be the exclusive New York City member of Leverage Global Partners, an international network that promotes the presidents of each member firm as key players in the international real estate arena. All LGP contact and inquiries will be directed to CORE founder and CEO Shaun Osher and his associates will get access to partners at member brokerages around the world.

“Leverage is curating a collection of similarly-minded boutique brokerages throughout the world,” explained Osher. “Accessibility to the founders/CEOs of each brokerage offers the highest degree of personal attention in making the right client/agent match and offering a new level of white-glove service and personalization.

“CORE is thrilled to be named the exclusive New York City member.”
