From a $250M condo to Pokemon Go, the top stories of 2016

These were the stories that had the most impact on Curbed readers this year

It's time to make up a bunch of awards and hand them out to the most deserving people, places and things in the real estate, architecture and neighborhood universes of New York City! Yep, it's time for the 13th Annual Curbed Awards! Up now: the year's 10 biggest real estate stories.

What did Curbed's readers love in 2016? If the biggest stories of the year are anything to go by, then tiny apartments, celebrity news, and exclusive peeks inside normally off-limits spaces ruled—as did Pokemon Go. Here now, the 10 most read stories of 2016.

10. Petite West Village studio on a charming, hidden street wants $675,000

Never underestimate the power of privacy and a good location: That combination made this itty-bitty West Village studio irresistible to readers. The studio is located on the top floor of a 19th-century "back house," which has its own private courtyard and is accessed via its own little walkway from the street.
