

November 20, 2015

Nate Berkus Lists Elegant Village Penthouse For $10.5M

Is anyone surprised that Nate Berkus's home is impeccable? The celebrity interior designer just listed his three-bedroom Greenwich Village duplex for $10.5 million, which is noteworthy because it's a whopping $4.5 million more than he paid for it in 2013. Berkus and his husband, interior designer Jeremiah Brent, purchased the penthouse in 2013 for $6 million, according to the Wall Street Journal.

The couple purchased an adjacent one-bedroom apartment in the building (which was designed by famed architect Emery Roth), then renovated it and combined it with the penthouse to create the apartment as it is now. Some of its stellar features include windowed walk-in closets, three wood-burning fireplaces, and a double-doored terrace. The furniture isn't a part of the sale however, but can be acquired on special request, according to WSJ. The couple, who have a 10-month-old daughter, Poppy Brent-Berkus, recently purchased a $2.36 million four-bedroom in West Hollywood.