Regal Co-op Carved From Jackie O's Father's Home Asks $1.5M

The parlor-floor apartment in a building that was once the private home of Jackie Kennedy's father, John Bouvier III, is up for grabs for $1.5 million. The 1800's landmarked brownstone on 36th Street between Park and Lexington avenues has long been divided into seven co-ops, but the apartment for sale still retains some of its original details like hardwood flooring and molding. The current owner of No. 115's parlor floor sure does have panache compared to Jackie O's legendary elegance; the two-bedroom home's interiors are adorned in full-wall mirrors and more than one heavily-wallpapered ceiling.
