

Nate Berkus Lists Greenwich Apartment

Hot off the heels of his engagement news, Nate Berkus is selling his New York City apartment.

Yep, Jeremiah Brent's fiancé has listed his one-bedroom, one-bathroom Greenwich Village home for $699,000. But some may consider that a bargain, considering the Oprah Winfrey-approved interior designer personally renovated and designed the space when he purchased it back in 2006 for $550,000.

In fact, the former TV host shared his handy work with The Oprah Show back in 2007, throwing the doors open to his 550-square-foot space to show off such home improvements as installing a French door, decking the bathroom out with marble floors and adding a limestone-topped bar to the kitchen.

Not too shabby, huh?

Now if only he would leave his fab furnishings behind. too!