

Lonny

April 9, 2015

Zachary Quinto Buys New York City Loft

Downtown Digs

From the small screen to the big one, Zachary Quinto is a busy man. He just began filming the highly anticipated Star Trek 3, but not before snatching up a 2,295-square-foot loft from CORE in Manhattan's NoHo neighborhood for a cool $3.1 million. Click through to see more of his hip pad.

Sunny & Spacious

The open floor plan allows for the living and dining areas to share one big, bright space.

Bookish Beauty

Built-in bookshelves create a focal point in the street-facing living room.

White Out

Whitewashed brick provides a serene backdrop for the king-size bed in the master bedroom.

Chef's Corner

Dark wood cabinetry and stainless steel appliances dominate a sleek city kitchen.

Storage Solutions

Unlike most city dwellings, this open gourmet kitchen features a walk-in pantry.

Selling Points

A seamless mirror hovers above deep, double sinks, but the main star of this master bath is the massive soaking tub.

Room to Grow
An extra bedroom can be used as a guest suite or home office.

Double Up
From the bunk beds to the bookshelf, this kids room is built-in ready.

Grungy Chic

The unassuming apartment resides in a quiet corner of downtown Manhattan's NoHo neighborhood.