

NEW YORK POST

March 26, 2014

In Herz Shoes

When Broadway publicist Shirley Herz died last year at age 87, the Great White Way dimmed its lights in her honor. Now Tony Award-winning designer William Ivey Long is using vintage clothing from Herz's estate in Woody Allen's musical "Bullets Over Broadway," currently in previews.

HGTV's "Selling New York" stars, CORE brokers Tom Postilio and Mickey Conlon, are listing her tony Park Avenue pad. The one-bedroom, one-bathroom co-op at 1120 Park Ave. is asking $995,000 and feature restored prewar details. The building was designed in 1929 by George Pelham.