Ex-‘Hills’ Star Checks Out East Village Duplex for ‘Open House’ Episode

TV personality Audrina Patridge, former “Hills” star turned host of NBC’s “1st Look,” is based on the West Coast but was recently spotted house-hunting on both coasts.

In Manhattan, she checked out a $2.19 million duplex in the East Village at 311 E. 11th St. The team from “Open House” filmed Patridge’s bi-coastal search, which will air on Oct. 25.

The ground-floor condo she scoped out is 1,213 square feet and comes with a 508-square-foot “townhouse-style” private backyard, according to the listing.

The master suite comes with a walk-in closet, floor-to-ceiling glass windows and a home office area.

The lower level boasts an open chef’s kitchen with a breakfast bar, a living room and the backyard, which comes with a 25-foot green wall.

Amenities in the LEED Gold building include a doorman, gym, condominium with a full-time doorman, fitness center, sauna, bike storage and residents’ lounge. There’s also a 421-a tax abatement.

CORE’s Todd Lewin has the listing.
