Nate Berkus and Jeremiah Brent Just Listed Their New York City Masterpiece

Just recently, Nate Berkus and Jeremiah Brent introduced to the world their stunning New York City penthouse in the October issue of Architectural Digest. The couple worked together to renovate the sprawling space, which is now back on the market.

Perfectly suited for a young family, the listing is any house hunter's dream. From carefully selected vintage furniture to the picturesque nursery Nate and Jeremiah designed for their daughter, Poppy, it's hard not to swoon.

But real estate gold such as this comes at a whopping price — $10.5 million to be exact. Keep reading for a glimpse of every room in this gorgeous "townhouse in the sky."
