

March 7, 2013

House of the Day: A Touch of Old Europe in Greenwich Village

With a faux-finish walls painted to look like limestone and barrel tiles on its wraparound terrace, this Greenwich Village duplex penthouse calls to mind traditional Italian and Spanish architecture. -- Jackie Bischof

It was listed with Emily Beare and Tony Sargent of CORE in February this year for its current listing price of $5.4 million

